

County To Set Assessment Ratio Up To 50 Percent

East Borough Delegation At Meeting

MONROE County Commissioners yesterday assured local school boards that they will set the assessment ratio at any point up to 50 percent of market value when tax equalization goes into effect.

Commissioners took the action in an effort to allow local school districts to proceed with their plans for building programs.

The county's equalization program is scheduled for completion in June by J. L. Jacobs Co.

Yesterday morning's action was prompted by a visit from an East Stroudsburg Area Joint Schools delegation. Officials representing the school district were Carl T. Secor, supervising principal; Alex Bensinger, school solicitor; John C. Litts, Monroe County Superintendent of Schools and T. B. Courtright, school district secretary.

Joint Delegation
The joint district delegation told Commissioners that they had been notified by the State Department of Public Instruction that "unless they have some assurance that our district's assessed value will be high enough to float a bond issue, we will lose our State number for processing of our building program."

Commission chairman John R. Lesoine summed up the attitude of fellow Commissioners when he said:

"We sympathize with your position, but we want you to know that we cannot say definitely where we will set the assessed value ratio until we know what the market value of properties will be for the County. We want to do everything in our power to help, though."

It was Lesoine who suggested that the Commissioners send a letter to the Department of Public Instruction to the effect that the county intends to hold a meeting with all local school districts and municipalities before establishing the ratio.

Purpose of such a meeting, he said, would be to determine where the assessed value ratio to market value should be placed to make it possible for local school districts to carry out building programs they have planned.

This idea was opposed by County Solicitor L. A. Achterman. He said that "this would leave you open to placing the ratio at any point up to 75 percent of the established market value—and that's as high as you can go by law."

Achterman was joined in opposition to the move by Willard Quick, Lesoine's fellow majority commissioner. Quick said that he would "go along with 50 percent but not 75."

The percentage under discussion controls—or will control—the amount of borrowing power school districts and municipalities have under law. It would not, in theory, affect the amount of taxes paid directly by the resident.

Secor told the board that he felt if Commissioners would write a letter to the State DPI saying that the County will support a percentage ratio up to 50 percent, the Jointure could hold its building program in place in the State files.

After more discussion, Achterman drafted a letter which said, in effect:

"East Stroudsburg Area Jointure school representatives called on this office today for the purpose of ascertaining the 1959 assessed value in their districts."

"We, unfortunately, are unable to determine the exact figures at this time since work by the J. L. Jacobs Co. on our tax equalization program will not be completed until June 1, 1958."

"We do have some idea what the market value will be at 50 percent assessment of market value will be adequate for the needs of these districts."

The letter was not given final approval at the meeting, however. Commissioners left shortly after lunch for a visit to Allentown where they studied equipment which they may use in setting up shop for the new equalized assessment program.

On return from Allentown the major portion of the letter was approved for mailing to George Klingling, school building division, Department of Public Instruction in Harrisburg.

Representatives Seek Agreement

HAZLETON — Representatives of the Pennsylvania Garment Manufacturers Assn., are going back to New York City to try to reach agreement with the International Ladies Garment Workers Union to end a 12-day old strike, their president said last night.

Abraham Glassberg told 225 of the 300 JGMA members a weekend of negotiations resulted in "an area of agreement" with the ILGWU but there are minor problems that remain to be agreed upon.

Unemployment Figures At 1,300

THE NUMBER of unemployed persons in Monroe County jumped 200 during the two-month period from Jan. 15 to March 15, according to Dr. Frank Maguire, Bureau of Employment Securities.

Maguire addressed the members of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce yesterday. He said that the total unemployed on Jan. 15 was 1,100 but that the number of unemployed persons in Monroe County "is expected now to total 1,300."

"The outlook is not easy to predict with any degree of assurance. We have substantial reason to believe that the cyclical seasonal employment will probably improve during the next two months," Maguire said.

"There is already some slight evidence of this in certain sectors," he went on. "But, as compared to this outlook, we find that employers are pessimistic in their predictions on future employment levels. They are hesitant, extremely cautious and even dubious in indicating any employment expansion in their respective plants," he said.

At the same time, Maguire emphasized that the currently available figures do not represent the sum total of persons unemployed in the county.

There are 54 persons whose unemployment compensation claims have expired during the past six months, he said. A breakdown of this figure shows the following expirations per month: September, two; October seven; November 10; December 15; January 13; February, 7.

None of these persons will be eligible for unemployment compensation until 22 weeks have gone by and they have moved in to what is called the "second benefit year."

Maguire said that the East Stroudsburg unemployment office has approved $423,603 in unemployment compensation claims during the past six months. A breakdown of this figure shows the following:

September — $19,258; October — $31,843; November — $44,852; December — $75,840; January — $116,230.

The total for February was $115,580, Maguire said. But he explained that February was a shorter month and included a legal holiday for which no allocation is made.

During the past week, he said, a total of 1,169 individual claims for unemployment were filed at the East Stroudsburg office. This does not include any totals for the current week, and the BES director indicated that this week's registration of claims would "probably raise the total to 1,300."

Figures released by Maguire show that 7.3 percent of Monroe County's total labor force is now unemployed. This compares with 8.3 percent of Pike County's labor force and a State average of 9.4 percent.

But the BES director also pointed out that in October, 1956 only 4.2 percent of the total work force in the State was unemployed.

In Monroe County there are now 57 firms employing workers, he said. Of these 30 are "manufacturing" firms and the remaining 27 are "non-manufacturing."

Maguire noted that there has been an increase in manufacturing during recent months, but he cautioned that this could be considered partially in the light of building up inventories.

Non-manufacturing employment (in retail and sales divisions) has fallen off and continues to do so, however. Maguire expressed a belief that this decrease is directly due to the fact that people are not purchasing manufactured goods which is already available.

Although the Monroe County situation is somewhat better than the Statewide average, the district in which Maguire serves as director shows a generally high rate of unemployment. This is especially true in Carbon County.

In this overall district, Maguire said, a total of 2,000 persons are now off the "claims line." They are no longer collecting unemployment — but it's because their compensation has run out, not because they have gone back to work.

Eisenhower Plans Job Conference

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower yesterday invited nine governors to meet with him today to discuss his plan for stretching out the period of payments to jobless workers.

The White House announced Eisenhower had sent telegrams to each of the nine members of the executive committee of the Governor's Conference.

The telegrams read in each case:

"I would like very much to confer with the members of the executive committee of the governor's conference about a limited and temporary extension of the duration of unemployment compensation benefits."

"We have developed a tentative plan on which I would appreciate your advice and counsel."

"Can you meet with me in my office in the White House, Wednesday afternoon, March 19, at 2:30 p.m. for this purpose?"

The telegrams went out on a day that produced a report from the Federal Reserve Board saying that in February "industrial production, employment, incomes and retail sales again declined."

Industrial production fell three points to 130 percent of the 1947-49 average. This was the lowest point since December 1954, and was 11 percent below the level a year ago.

The report on February business also had some bad news for those who had anticipated an upturn during March. One section said: "In early March auto output was curtailed further and steel production remained near the low February rate."

The Federal Reserve report coincided with new action in Congress to combat the drop in business and employment.

In one move, Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) introduced a bill proposing a two-billion-dollar program of low-interest loans by the federal government to help local governments finance public works activities.

In another, Sen. Johnson (D-Tex.) called for larger Social Security benefits, including more aid to the aged, in any tax bill Congress may consider.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell took formal note of the fact that as far back as last January, President Eisenhower had urged the states to boost the amount and duration of unemployment compensation benefits.

Mitchell wrote governors of all states, recalling that Eisenhower made the suggestion in his 1958 economic message.

Court Upholds Injunction

PITTSBURGH — A Dauphin County Court injunction granted on petition of the Turnpike Commission that charges Manu-Mine Research and Development Co. and former Turnpike Commissioner Thomas J. Evans entered into a fraudulent conspiracy was upheld yesterday by the State Supreme Court.

The preliminary injunction froze bank accounts and assets of Manu-Mine. The firm was involved in recent Pennsylvania Turnpike fraud trials.

'Moon' Reaches 2,500 Miles Out Into Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Navy's Vanguard, a finely-tuned space rocket, fired the free world's second satellite into orbit around the earth yesterday.

Clicking like a fine watch in its arrow-true climb into the blue sky, the Vanguard hurled its tiny, radio-equipped aluminum "moon" into an egg-shaped orbit so ideal that it may travel through space 5 to 10 years.

It weighed only 3 1/4 pounds and was only 6.4 inches in diameter, but it was equipped to gather much of the information needed before manned vehicles could venture into space.

Minutes after the world's smallest but highest flying satellite began its globe-circling journey, the high-pitched whine of its radio signals was picked up by tracking stations.

Joins Explorer
Its voice joined that of Explorer I, the first U.S. satellite launched here Jan. 31 by the Army's Jupiter-C missile.

The third man-made moon now orbiting in space, the Soviet Union's dog-carrying Sputnik II, is silent. The 1,120-pound Red satellite is losing altitude, and American scientists expect it to plunge to a fiery death in the world's dense atmosphere about April 14.

Sputnik I, first of the Soviet moons, disintegrated Jan. 4.

Dr. John P. Hagen, director of the Vanguard project, said the new American satellite is traveling at a little better than 18,000 miles an hour in an orbit that will swing it as far as 2,500 miles out in space and bring it as close to the earth as 400 miles.

Explorer I reaches a maximum distance of 1,575 miles from the earth. Sputnik II looped out 1,200 miles and Sputnik I only 580 miles.

Yesterday's beautiful performance of the Vanguard overcame the Soviet numerical superiority in space, and helped heal the heartaches of its builders.

Twice before, Vanguard launching attempts ended in fiery failure. The first blew up last Dec. 6 after rising only four feet off its launching pad. The second broke apart Feb. 5 after climbing 20,000 feet.

The Vanguard, its makers said, had been rushed into action before it was ready.

But now the slender gray-green rocket has made up for all past disappointments.

Wild Cheers
Its smooth, trouble-free journey into the skies after the blastoff at 7:15 a.m. brought wild cheers from personnel of the Navy and the Martin Co. the rocket's builder.

Immediately after President Eisenhower told the world the rocket had carried out the mission for which it was created, Vanguard spokesmen were talking of more ambitious ventures in space.

One more of the 3 1/4-pound moons probably will be launched. The vehicle is at the missile test center here and ready to go.

Then a 20-inch, 20 1/2-pound sphere, with more elaborate instruments to tabulate the secrets of space, is to be fired.

Hagen said the rocket fired today proved itself so well that the next logical step would be to try to orbit a satellite as far out as the moon, 240,000 miles from the earth.

The weather was perfect, skies were clear and there was little wind when the Vanguard countdown started with the goal of a firing at 7 a.m. not long before zero hour, word came through that radio signals from Explorer I would be picked up in this part of the world between 6:50 and 7:10 a.m. There was a possibility of overlapping radio signals from the two satellites. The Vanguard launching time was rescheduled for 7:10.

The Vanguard satellite is expected to take 135 minutes to circle the earth.

Trailing it through space is the five-foot, 30-pound cylinder which was the third stage of the Vanguard rocket. This tube will be the biggest American object in the skies. Explorer I weighs 30.8 pounds.

Heyburn Files In Stassen Camp

HARRISBURG — The entry of Republican Weldon B. Heyburn and Democrat Clarence P. Bowers into the race for U.S. Senator spotlighted the closing last night of the formal list of candidates for the May 20 primary.

Heyburn, a former state treasurer, auditor general and Delaware County senator, came out as the senatorial running mate of Harold E. Stassen, who is backing the GOP organization for the gubernatorial nomination.

Lt. Gov. Roy E. Furman, fighting the Democratic organization in his quest for the gubernatorial nomination, settled on Bowers, a Reading battery manufacturer, to run with him for the U.S. Senate.

Deadline
The deadline for filing nomination petitions expired with opposing slates for statewide office on both the Democratic and Republican tickets. The State Elections Bureau was flooded with hundreds of last-minute filings.

The lengthy lineup indicated one of the most wide open primary elections in 20 years. In addition to statewide offices, voters will choose party nominees for Congress, the 210-member State House of Representatives and 26 members of the 50-seat Senate.

Gov. Leader showed up in person to file nomination petitions, carrying an estimated 15,000 signatures from all 67 counties, in behalf of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator.

Leader also carried the petitions of his organization-backed running-mate for governor, Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh, and for Judge John Morgan Davis of Philadelphia for lieutenant governor.

Miss Genevieve Blatt, who received the organization nod for a second term as secretary of internal affairs, submitted her own petitions earlier.

Furman, renewing his pledge to fight the Democratic organization in his bid for the party's gubernatorial nomination, turned up in person at the elections bureau with all of his running-mates.

In addition to Bowers, they were William E. Culbertson, Clarion oil and gas operator, for lieutenant governor, and Michael A. Cannavino, Erie councilman, for secretary of internal affairs.

Independents
Three independent Democratic candidates also filed for governor. They include Dr. William D. McClelland, Allegheny County coroner who lost out to Leader in 1954; Edward P. Lavelle, Scranton, a former state capitol policeman, and Charles J. Schmitt, Girard, Erie County, an advocate of legalized horse race betting.

On the Republican side, William S. Livengood Jr., Somerset, former secretary of internal affairs, filed his solo candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination. Another independent GOP candidate for governor, Harold J. Vaughan, Alliquippa sales executive, turned in his papers last week.

Yesterday's Death
Michael Hovestadt, Pocono, died yesterday morning at the General Hospital of Monroe County.

ANSWERING THE CALL for help sent out by the Crippled Children and Adults Association, these letters contain funds given in return for Easter Seals mailed by the group. Easter Seal Sales Reach $1,636 Mark

SALE OF Easter Seals in Monroe County now total $1,636. This amount was disclosed last night by J. Nelson Westbrook, chairman of the seal drive for this area.

Westbrook said that the sale is "now about at the half-way point, judging from proceeds in previous years."

Fund Activity

He said that 11,156 letters were mailed out to local residents. Of that total only about 1,000 have been returned so far.

The Easter Seal sale is sponsored by the Monroe County Crippled Children and Adults Assn. It is the organization's major fund-raising activity during the year.

Guidance Work Requires Proper Time

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles on Monroe County education. Each will be based on the results of the county-wide survey conducted by the author for The Daily Record.

By Leonard Randolph

—OUR SCHOOL carries on an extensive guidance program only because the guidance staff is willing to give many hours outside of school time for planning guidance activities and for counseling.

More school time should be given these teachers to carry out these services or more members should be added to the staff.

This is one isolated comment from a classroom teacher. In one way it is typical of many of those made in the survey. The answers indicate that the public school system in Monroe County is getting a guidance program which is roughly equivalent to the amount of extra or "free" time the so-called guidance teacher is willing to give to it.

In one other respect, however, the answer is not typical at all. Where as this teacher points to an "extensive guidance program," nearly all the remaining comments would seem to indicate that little or no regulated guidance is offered in most schools.

Here are a few selected answers given by classroom teachers:

—We should have a full-time guidance and counseling service department. There must be full cooperation between the teaching staff and this department and complete records must be maintained on each student and kept on file in the guidance office.

—Guidance should begin in the elementary school. I do not mean vocational guidance, but a good "overall" program which will help the classroom teacher to guide the slow-learner, the under-achiever and the gifted as well as the average. We must encourage in-service education in guidance for teachers and supervisors.

—Every school should have at least one full-time guidance counselor for girls and one for boys. This should be their full-time position without additional teaching duties.

—We need more guidance counselors, but students should not be guided into specialized fields at a too-early age when they are too immature to choose a vocation. We need more basic instruction.

—Guidance counselors should be required at all grade levels. Counseling should be required just as health and physical education are required.

—Specially-trained counselors and guidance teachers are lacking in nearly all schools. Most teachers (classroom) have neither the time nor the facilities to do an adequate job in guidance. And most schools cannot afford a guidance teacher.

—The State of Delaware has worked out lessons on "human relations" which are published for at least seventh and eighth grades. These lessons seem to go a long way toward helping the child to understand himself (his emotions), his parents, classmates, attitudes in general on a number of matters. Every teacher should be trained in guidance.

—We need better set-up college programs for prospective guidance instructors and counselors.

—Guidance and counseling can be had by appointing part-time teachers such as those now teaching sports, music groups etc. (Author's note: is a minority view, expressed only once in the survey, although one other teacher suggests a county guidance service for all schools.)

—We should have at least one fully-trained guidance person for each 300 pupils in the junior and senior high schools. This person should be responsible for guidance and have nothing to do with discipline. Courses in guidance techniques and principles should be a requirement for each person training to be a teacher.

—We are doing a fairly good job with those students interested in advance schooling; not those who intend to terminate education as early as possible or with graduation. Could we discover these latter earlier in their school life and build a program for them, we would be doing a better job for all. Parents need to be educated to the thought that all education is good education.

—Time and administrative relationships are the problems to be faced in making better guidance programs. A guidance person cannot be a full-time teacher and perform in the guidance office at the same time. Disciplinary action must be divorced from the guidance office and given to the proper persons.

—Only qualified guidance counselors should administer and interpret tests. I am of the opinion that a "little" guidance, improperly given, is worse than none.

—Americans should look to other countries' school systems and methods of discipline for better school programs. We, in this country, are too proud to admit that most European schools have the jump on us in curriculum, discipline and respect for teachers.

Pocono High Lists Science Winners

TANNERSVILLE—The three first-place winners in the science fair held at Pocono Township High School will enter their exhibits in the Lehigh Valley Science Fair at Allentown next month.

This was announced yesterday by George Larn and Richard Rugg, science teachers who were in charge of the local fair.

The winners were announced as follows:
Physics—Richard Bullock, device for measuring horsepower of gasoline engines.
Biology—Jennette Bryson, skeleton of chicken.
Engineering—Stephen Luckey, working model of reciprocating oil well.

Three Perish In Route 309 Accident

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Three persons were killed Sunday night in a head-on collision on Route 309 near here.

Two of the victims were Stanley C. Wanamaker, 28, of Germantown, R. D. 1 in Lehigh County and his wife, Betty Jane, 26.

The other victim was Joseph B. Macenka, 25, of Coaldale. He was alone in his car.

Two Children

The Wanamaker's two children, Brenda, 11, and Dennis, 8, were taken to the Allentown Hospital. Their conditions were listed as "fair."

Police said Macenka, a plumber, lost control of his car on a curve and crashed into the Wanamaker vehicle, driven by Mrs. Wanamaker. Macenka's car overturned and the other went up an embankment.

Western Allies Lose Right

BERLIN (AP)—A Communist East German official said yesterday the Western Allies have lost the right to keep their troops in West Berlin, 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain.

East Stroudsburg Brothers Fined $109 For Having Deer

TWO EAST Stroudsburg brothers were fined $109 and costs each after pleading guilty to charges of possessing parts of deer taken in closed season.

They were committed to Monroe County jail in lieu of the fine and costs and were released early yesterday when the fines were paid.

Peace Justice Marshall J. Neyhart, of East Stroudsburg, identified them as Richard D. Storm, 22, and Lester Storm, 20, both of 75 Burson St.

Use Axe
John Doebbing, Monroe County game protector, said the pair struck a snowbound deer in the head with an axe during closed season about three weeks ago in Pike County.

Doebbing said the older Storm admitted the killing. The two brothers dressed the deer, left it hanging in the woods and returned to Pike County Saturday to bring back the carcass. Doebbing and Police Chief Travis Seese, of East Stroudsburg, assisted by Patrolman Donald Quick and Clark Frailey, apprehended the pair as they were burying the carcass in snow near their home.

Three Motor Vehicle Manufacturing Firms Show Improvements Over 1956 Tabulations

THE RISE and fall sales reports recently disclosed by major motor vehicle manufacturers shows the Ford Motor with a rise over the 1956 span.

Studebaker-Packard with a reduced loss, and American Motors experiencing a recent week-long shutdown.

Reportedly, American Motors officials foresee no further shutdown of its auto production. Corporation President-Chairman George Romney declined to predict second quarter sales and earnings, but reiterated the company would be in the black.

Studebaker-Packard's management is said to have announced in a preliminary report that a net loss in 1956 of $43,318,257 was reduced last year to $11,135,108. This, officials noted, was in spite of a sharp decline in sales.

In a report released by the Ford Motor Co., sales of cars and trucks during 1957 rose to 2,095,470 in comparison with 1,957,861 the previous year.

Sales of the Lincoln and Mercury, they pointed out, declined in 1957 from the totals established the previous span.

Ford cars and trucks sales were up, they continued, including about a four percent rise in station wagons.

In Detroit, General Motors Corporation President Harlow Curtice announced he has asked four Congressmen that any proposed legislation dealing with reduction or elimination of excise taxes that is applicable to motor vehicles... or other items of substantial value, immediately be made retroactive to an early date in March.

Any such proposal, he remarked, should have provision for refund to manufacturer of excise taxes subsequent to the specified date. This, he said, would be provided the manufacturer in turn passes the refund to distributors and dealers on the wholesale transactions and the latter, in turn, pass refunds to customers on retail transactions.

Teen-Agers Confined To Pike Jail

MILFORD—Two local teen-agers were confined to Pike County jail here yesterday to await court action on burglary charges.

State police of the local barracks identified them as Harry Williams, 19, and his 16-year-old brother. The pair was arrested Sunday in Port Jervis, N. Y., and waived extradition here.

Troopers John McCarthy and James Colbert said the pair broke into the home of James Meyer, Milford, early Sunday and took an undetermined amount of cash. The investigation is continuing.

Dr. Bucher To Speak At College

A NATIONALLY-known health and physical education authority, Dr. Charles A. Bucher, will address the Student Education Association at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College tomorrow.

The program begins at 7 p.m. Entertainment will be provided by the East Stroudsburg Area High School Band under the direction of Clement Wiedmyer. Dr. Bucher is one of the outstanding men in the field. He is coordinator of undergraduate and graduate physical education for both men and women at New York University. He holds the rank of professor.

Topic of Talk
His talk before the 400 members of the local S.E.A. will be on "The Aspirin Age." His theme will be an effort to help future teachers organize their lives and integrate their interests so that mental health and effective service may be the outcome.

Dr. and Mrs. Bucher will be honored at a supper in the college dining hall at 5:45 p.m. tomorrow. Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler and members of the physical education staff will act as hosts.

Oscar Liljenstein, head of the department, and several of the staff members who have studied under Dr. Bucher, will renew old acquaintances.

The program arrangements have been handled by Perry W. Bean, a sponsor of the Student Education Association. Dr. John Wildrick is coordinating sponsor and Dr. Nathan G. Meyer is the adviser.

Sylvania Chorus To Entertain

THE TOBYHANNA Lions Club announced yesterday it will sponsor a performance of the Sylvania Men's Chorus tomorrow night at the Coolbaugh Township High School auditorium.

The chorus presentation will begin at 8:15 p.m. at the Tobyhanna school.

According to a Lions Club spokesman the group launched their famed career in 1948 as a double male quartette and expanded to a chorus the following year.

Additional Growth
Three years later, group efforts led to additional growth in the chorus and numerous TV and radio appearances, in addition to regular performances.

The group is classified as a non-profit organization "dedicated to helping worthwhile organizations to raise money for charitable purposes by providing good musical entertainment."

30th Annual Banquet For FFA Group

NEWFOUNDLAND — The 30th annual father and son banquet of the Greene-Dreher Chapter of Future Farmers of America will be held tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Greene-Dreher-Sterling Joint School under the chairmanship of Roy McLain of Greentown.

The event, second oldest of its kind in Pennsylvania, is an annual highlight here and features the presentation of the chapter sweetheart and honorary farmer.

Chapter Sweetheart
Miss Lillian Rose, a senior homemaker student at GDS, has been chosen as chapter sweetheart and Robert Madsen, Sr., has been elected the chapter's honorary farmer.

Franklin Berger, president of the local chapter, will be master of ceremonies and Franklin Madden will be toastmaster.

Speakers will be Jerome Thomas, who will discuss "Poultry in the Future and Your Future in Poultry"; Robert Madsen, Jr., whose topic is "Future in Crops"; and Wilfred Frick, who will speak on "Dairyling for Tomorrow."

Mrs. Mort's Father Dies

HOWARD H. HALL, 82-year-old father-in-law of a Mount Pocono Methodist minister, died yesterday afternoon in his Williamsport home after a long illness.

Mr. Hall, whose daughter, Edythe, is the wife of Rev. James F. Mort of Mount Pocono, died shortly after 2:30 p.m.

Hospitalized
Rev. Mort said Mr. Hall's illness had confined him to a hospital between Jan. 1 and Feb. 9. A resident of Williamsport for several years, he was the operator of a barbershop in that city.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Katherine Hall of their home address at 915 Diamond St., Williamsport; a son, George Hall, of Hyattsville, Md.; and a daughter, Mrs. Edythe Mort of Mount Pocono.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. from the Knight Funeral Home in Williamsport and interment will be in a Lewisburg, Pa., cemetery.

Pennsylvania Drops Many Toll Charges

DOYLESTOWN (AP) — The Commonwealth disclosed yesterday it won't prosecute Alexander R. Miller of Easton, former chairman of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission, on charges he profited from insurance contracts.

Bucks County District Attorney Paul R. Becker announced the state's plans to drop the charges during argument on Miller's request for a separate trial one each of six indictments against him.

No Reason

Becker didn't disclose the state's reason for dropping these charges, plus 26 of 29 other counts in an indictment charging Miller with unauthorized expenses while in office, and an indictment for unauthorized lobbying in Harrisburg, Pa.

The Commonwealth said it will press charges against him of collecting unauthorized expenses and unauthorized salary. The charges were made in 1956.

Three-Way Race For Democratic Chairmanship

A THREE-WAY race for Democratic party chairman split wide open yesterday afternoon. But there were indications one candidate may withdraw sometime today.

The race emerged in the final seconds of the deadline-day for filing petitions. The chairman will be named at the May 20 primary.

Candidates who filed at 4:30 p.m. yesterday were these three:

Van D. Yetter, present party chairman, who is also a candidate for the party nomination for State representative from Monroe County.

John Brislin, former county party chairman who was an unsuccessful candidate several years ago for State senator from this district.

John Schimmel, active in party politics who has served on the board of the Stroud Union School District and is now employed as an inspector of weights and measures by the State.

The emergence of the three-way battle was something of a surprise to party regulars yesterday. Most members of the party's upper echelon knew that petitions for all three candidates were being circulated.

But most of them had believed that one or more of the candidates would retire from the race to avoid a full-scale primary battle.

Our Library Invaluable

Libraries throughout the nation have experienced a steady growth in public service and popularity down through the years. This in spite of the many types of entertainment and activity which develop and compete for the average person's attention in his spare time.

That our population is becoming better educated all the time and therefore more capable of taking advantage of reading facilities is, of course, one factor entering into the growth of libraries.

Even more important, however, is the fact that today's life is more complex than it was only a few years ago and we must turn to the libraries in our eagerness to satisfy our thirst for more knowledge. In other words, libraries are a basic essential in education and are becoming more so every day.

Take the Monroe County Public Library, for example. In 1950, it circulated a total of 101,962 books. This number soared by more than 35 per cent in only seven years to a record total of 139,900 in 1957. In addition, it answered approximately 8,000 reference questions by mail and telephone.

The largest number of new borrowers in the library's history—609 persons—were enrolled last year. Happily, young people outnumbered adults among the new applicants and by a substantial margin, 358 to 251.

The library added 674 adult books and 723 juvenile volumes for a total of 1,397 last year. It now has 30,973 books on its shelves and boasts a complete reference department.

The library is located in comfortable quarters at 913 Main St., Stroudsburg, and has three full-time employees: Mrs. Elizabeth N. Kane, librarian; Mrs. Carolyn Shaffer, children's division librarian, and Miss Anne Kane, assistant librarian.

Through the medium of a bookmobile, the library is able to offer its services to all parts of the county. Last year, 73,887 books were distributed at the 118 school rooms which serve as bookmobile stations.

This figure compares with 27,576 volumes borrowed from the children's division of the main library and 38,437 from the adult section, a total of 66,013.

The county appropriated $6,500 to the library's support in 1957 and the state gave $4,000 for the purchase of books and magazines. Fines charged on overdue books and rental fees on latest books of fiction provided an additional $1,130.43.

We suggest you visit your library during the celebration of National Library Week ending Saturday. You owe it to yourself and to your children to see that it is a good library.

Pearl of the Antilles

George Sokolsky Says...

Dubinsky's Next Move

Now that David Dubinsky has won his strike as had been planned, he is again master in his own house and can devote himself to the more genteel art of politics. For David Dubinsky is the dominant personality in New York State's Liberal Party which has produced between 300,000 and 400,000 votes in some elections.

The Liberal Party is a break-away from the American Labor Party which was organized under instructions of President Franklin D. Roosevelt to catch those voters in New York who would vote for Roosevelt but not under the Tammany Hall banner.

The American Labor Party came under the control of Vito Marcantonio and was suspected by many of being an adjunct of the Communist Party. Such pro-Roosevelt anti-Tammanyites as A. A. Berle, Jr., David Dubinsky and Alex. Rose, head of the Millinery Union, organized the Liberal Party which up to now has been an adjunct of the Democratic Party, and has been controlled by Dubinsky.

In the forthcoming gubernatorial election, the Liberal Party, that is Dubinsky, faces a dilemma. According to all the rules of life, Governor Averell Harriman deserves and ought to get the Liberal Party endorsement which should be worth enough to put him over quite comfortably.

Republicans Agree

However, if Nelson Rockefeller decides to run on the Republican ticket for Governor, he can have the nomination because that party in this state is without leadership or money, and if Rockefeller can produce nothing else, he can provide money. Therefore many Republicans are for him because even if they cannot win, they will at least be on a gravy train.

For Dubinsky, this is tough. Nelson Rockefeller has been a political protégé of Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, the brilliant public relations counsel, who is very close to both David Dubinsky and Averell Harriman. If Dubinsky switches from Harriman to Rockefeller, will he be an ingrate? And if he rejects Nelson Rockefeller who has been something of a buddy of Dubinsky's, will that also be ingratitude?

Can the Liberal Party, like a Bar Association endorsing judges, say that both are not bad? And if both are not bad, who are the sheep to vote for? To muddy the waters, the Liberal Party has been suggesting all sorts of candidates for United States Senator—Dr. Ralph Bunche, the United Nations Under Secretary and probably the foremost Negro in the United States.

Then they talked about Ed Murrow, the broadcaster who visits the homes of celebrities and asks gaudy questions. Both Bunche and Murrow have apparently declined the honor. The Democratic candidate is likely to be Mayor Robert Wagner of New York and it is impossible to see how Dubinsky can refuse him the Liberal Party endorsement after he helped him win this face-saving strike.

But if the Liberal Party endorses Wagner for Senator can it refuse Harriman its support? Can the Liberal Party run Nelson Rockefeller for Governor and Mayor Robert Wagner for United States Senator?

This is too illogical even for Dubinsky who as an old-style Social Democrat pursues opportunism as a way of life. And he has done very well thereby. However, can he pull his voters with him as he does workers in a strike? That, of course, is the question that can only be answered at the polls. A fellow who has a treasury of $200,000,000 can be a very attractive person and Dave Dubinsky has other favorable qualities.

It will be fun to see a campaign in New York in which the contenders are millionaire Harriman versus millionaire Rockefeller, both lovers of the people. Harriman has been more consistently New Deal than Nelson Rockefeller who has worked in the Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower Administrations.

There are five Rockefeller brothers and of them, Nelson is the politician whose eye is unquestionably set on the Presidency. It is to be noted that every man who Mrs. Anna Rosenberg has groomed has won a place of distinction. There must be an alumni association of them. Nelson Rockefeller will make a good try in New York and even should he lose to Harriman, it will not be a dead loss, for if he does well at all in 1958, which is expected to be Democratic year, he undoubtedly might be Vice-President stuff in 1960.

The stakes are big and the players can afford them. But what will Dubinsky do?

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

A famous Hollywood producer is considered by friends to be the greatest hypochondriac in the land. He usually has two bottles of pills in every pocket. Not so long ago he and Cary Grant passed a drugstore. "Don't you want to step in?" suggested Grant.

"Not today," said the producer. "I don't need a thing."

"I know," persisted Grant, "but maybe the druggist does."

TV tycoon Louis Cowan wanted to have one of the trees on his estate chopped down last summer. "It looks diseased and dying to me," he opined. His son Paul, however, persuaded him to put away his ax. "Pop," he declared, "that tree's bark is worse than its blight."

A "flash victory" may be in the offing such as occurred in 1954 when they astonished everyone including themselves by catching the gubernatorial ball—but under such circumstances they have a frightful time trying to hold onto the ball.

For example, while they caught the gubernatorial ball, they dropped the all-important legislative ball, leaving the GOP team in complete control. A registration edge could have turned the trick.

Registrations are not decisive but they are a form of necessary insurance. Democrats have not had it so far.

It was such a beautiful day yesterday. But, its rather uncomfortable today for those followers of St. Patrick who did too much celebrating last night.

That once-a-year glow of green is missing from the spots it so proudly covered yesterday. Instead, a panorama of spots has moved into place.

That fresh, "it's great to be alive feeling," has been replaced by one of having been submerged in the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean for about a week.

The dancers and celebrants had a great night Monday, but they're paying the toll right now.

Following are the five recommendations approved by a majority of the Committee:

"Regulate and control welfare funds."

"Regulate and control union funds."

"Curb activities of middlemen in labor-management relations."

"Insure union democracy."

"Clarify the no-man's land in labor-management relations."

In discussing these proposals, the report stresses particularly the urgent need for federal supervision of union funds. Regarding that the report states:

"Legislation should be enacted closing up present loopholes in law concerning the filing of these financial statements. They should be required to be accurate and complete. . . There should be a method for checking their veracity, and provisions for bringing legal action against unions filing false statements and against the officers of unions testifying to these false statements."

"A provision should be included making it a federal crime, punishable by a prison sentence, for the wilful filing of a false or incomplete financial statement. Similarly, a law should be expeditiously enacted which will require the registration, reporting and disclosure of the administration of all health and welfare funds."

The report is equally emphatic on the need to strengthen "union democracy." On that it states:

"Legislation should be promptly enacted to insure periodic election of officers; use of secret ballots in union elections; a limitation on right of the international to place local unions in trusteeship or suzerainty."

The operations of "middlemen in labor-management relations" are highlighted in the report by the testimony of Nathan Shefferman of Chicago. The Committee disclosed that this friend of former Teamster boss Dave Beck handled more than $85,000,000 in loans and gifts.

To outlaw such activities, the report recommends that "steps be taken to extend the liability for unfair labor practices to the middlemen retained by employers who represent them in management disputes."

Strengthening the scope and authority of the National Labor Relations Board is counseled by the report for dealing with the "no-man's land in labor-management relations." This recommendation states:

"The jurisdiction of the NLRB should be extended into certain areas where this deficiency now exists. In the investigation in the New York area it was shown that exploitation of workers and circumvention of legitimate labor organizations were made possible because employers or employees had no recourse to any governmental agency."

While scathing in condemning labor corruption and violence, the report lauds the efforts of AFL-CIO leaders to clean up these abuses. The report declares:

"The Committee notes with deep satisfaction that a number of unions under its scrutiny during the past year have been subjected to severe disciplinary measures by the American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations. The Teamsters and Bakers have been expelled from its ranks; the Textile Workers were temporarily suspended until concrete evidence was given of a sincere movement for reform."

The Committee's first report is based on 17,485 pages of testimony. Behind this immense volume of transcript, is 650,000 miles of travel in 44 states by Committee investigators, who interviewed 16,000 persons. For this purpose, 2,740 subpoenas were issued. In addition, the Committee staff handled more than 100,000 letters offering information and tips.

For these far-flung operations, the Committee established branch offices in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, Nashville, Miami, Portland, and Seattle.

In stressing the need for tighter controls on the handling of union funds and putting an end to collusion between labor and management, the report uses blunt language, as follows:

"Financial safeguards have been woefully lacking. Adults have been little more than a formal ritual of adding up figures, while failing to probe their veracity or the vital detail behind them. Financial reports to rank-and-file members have often been false, sketchy and even in these forms largely unavailable for perusal by the membership."

"Union officials in the unions investigated have engaged in the habit of dealing in cash rather than by check. Union officials have received flat expense allowances often in excess of demonstrated needs. . . Even in the case of publicized gifts by union officials, the recipients have not declared them for income tax purposes, while the donors have written them off as deductible business expense. . . Destruction of financial records and cancelled checks has been rife, often coincidentally with the approach of Committee investigators."

"Managements have extensively engaged in collusion with unions. They have paid high union officials to obtain favored treatment by way of 'sweetheart' contracts. They have paid off to obtain inferior contracts which impose sub-standard working conditions on thousands of workers; they have connived with 'approved' unions at under-table agreements to permit organizing of their workers to the exclusion of other unions."

"Certain companies have granted business concessions and loans to union leaders with whom they want to curry favor. Trade associations have conspired with unions to achieve industry monopolies. So-called 'whip-company' have been set up to keep rival companies in line, and have been blinkered by unions even when they have themselves broken union rules."

Tourists Spend Money

Rolling merrily along at an all-time high is tourist interest in the Keystone State. Individual inquiries last year to the State Department of Commerce ran over the 200,000 mark, topping a record set in 1950.

Secretary William Davlin says millions of dollars are realized annually from tourists and vacationers through this "Pennsylvania industry without a smokestack." That is no exaggeration; some phases of the tourist industry are lively throughout the calendar year.

Moreover, it provides employment for thousands of native sons and daughters, particularly during the Summer, as Pennsylvania plays host to visitors from all parts of the country.

Funds spent to boost our superb scenic attractions, points of major historic interest and splendid resort areas are a profitable investment.

The Pennsylvania Story

Fall Short Of Goal

By Mason DeLeon

Harrisburg — Vote-hustling Pennsylvania Democrats apparently are destined to go into this year's key election once again as the registration underdog.

Two weeks remain for them to complete their ambitious registration drive which had as its goal the surpassing of Republicans in total voter registration before the books close March 31.

Privately, top Democratic leaders are willing to concede that they indeed are destined to fall short of their goal—barring some unforeseen miracle which none have in sight at the moment.

It is interesting to note that not in the modern history of the Democratic Party in Pennsylvania has this ambitious goal ever been attained. Since the registration books were opened December 5, the donkey riders have tried every trick in the bag—and some not there—in a determined effort to wrest registration control from their GOP counterparts.

For them 1958 is the big year. It is what many a Democratic old pol around Capitol Hill refers to as the acid test—the test as to whether they can beat the single-term jinx that beset them in 1953 when the last Democratic administration floundered somewhat dismally out of office in favor of Republicans.

Serious Inroads

To offset this had luck charm they actually have been working since they first assumed office in 1955 to nip the GOP registration edge.

They have made inroads—serious inroads — It is true. The inescapable fact remains that they still haven't been able to dog the edge Republicans slipping have held, however.

This is how far Pennsylvania Democrats have come though within the past four years:

In the 1954 election which saw Democratic Governor Leader boosted into office, Pennsylvania Republicans held a near-million registration edge—907,114 to be exact.

At the present time—excluding new registrations that have been acquired and are being acquired during the current registration period—the GOP edge has been whittled down to around 345,000.

Dapper Joseph M. Barr, Democratic State Chairman estimates on his Democratic slide-rule that if only 172,000 Republicans could be talked into switching their party allegiance before the books close for the November election, "we would gain the upper hand in registration."

From this logical statistical computation, Allegheny Countyman Barr drew this secondary thought:

"While I am supremely confident the Democratic candidates at the election next November can be elected by impressive majorities on the basis of our present registration totals, it would be a terrific morale booster if the Democrats could draw even with, or surpass the Republicans in voter registration."

From this reporter's standpoint it would be more than a "morale booster."

Democrats in the Keystone State have been consistently dogged by the fact that they have been the registration underdogs.

A "flash victory" may be in the offing such as occurred in 1954 when they astonished everyone including themselves by catching the gubernatorial ball—but under such circumstances they have a frightful time trying to hold onto the ball.

For example, while they caught the gubernatorial ball, they dropped the all-important legislative ball, leaving the GOP team in complete control. A registration edge could have turned the trick.

Registrations are not decisive but they are a form of necessary insurance. Democrats have not had it so far.

Behind The Scenes

In Hollywood by Harrison Carroll

Hollywood — Those Moscow remarks which caused such a hubbub were meant just to be amusing, says Cary Grant.

I was on the phone with Cary a few minutes after he got home from the airport. He said he was sorry some people misunderstood what he told reporters in the Soviet capital.

"I was talking to American press representatives," he said, "and, suddenly, it struck me as funny. Here I was in a country where there was supposed to be no freedom and, in my particular case, I felt quite free because, for once, I could walk around the streets without anybody recognizing me. None of my pictures has ever been shown in Russia."

"It probably was a thoughtless thing to say, but anybody in our business would understand what I meant. I just thought it was amusing."

According to Cary, Betsy Drake is winding up her British picture, "Intent to Kill," and soon will head to Palm Springs. He will take off on a fast trip to Hong Kong to look over the studios there with a future production in view. He was in Moscow only three days, says Cary, and saw what tourists usually see. He did manage to take in one movie, the puppet theater and the ballet at the Bolshoi theater. He saw Ulanova dance "Giselle."

Now that Kim Novak has the carpeting in her bedroom, the Siamese cat, which Columbia gave her, prefers to sleep on the floor instead of in her bed. Kim says she is going to take some time off after "Bell, Book and Candle." She is going to resume her singing and dancing lessons and hopes to learn how to swim.

She has a pool in her back yard and can't swim a stroke.

Since Harry Karl's announcement that there is a new mystery love in his life, actress Sara Shane has been busy denying she is the girl. "I only dated him twice," declared Sara. "Besides, he said it was a redhead, and I am a blond."

Bible Thought

Destiny drove him. His mother warned him of his danger, yet He went. He even antagonized high church men by overthrowing the tables of the money changers at the temple. He seemed to be asking for trouble.

Jesus Loved Them

Jesus Thought Highly Of Simon Although He Is Mentioned Very Little In Scripture

—and Simon called
—Luke VIII

ASIDE from this brief reference (and similar references in the other Gospels), the New Testament tells us very little of Simon, except that he was called by Jesus to be one of the 12 disciples.

Luke indicates that he was a member of the Zealots, a Jewish sect which adhered strictly to Mosaic ritual, and advocated the assertion of religious liberty by force of arms.

Elsewhere he is called the Cananite, referring not to the place of his birth, but to the Hebrew word signifying "to be zealous." Luke, who wrote his Gospel in Greek, merely used the Greek term meaning the same thing.

The sect of Zealots is believed to have been organized by a fierce patriot known as Judas the Galilean who, when Judea was made a Roman province, publicly urged the people to resist Roman rule, and to refuse to pay taxes.

The Jewish historian, Josephus, paints a very derogatory picture of the Zealots in their later history during the siege of Jerusalem under Vespasian.

According to his account, they assassinated many of the most eminent citizens of the Holy City, and created such internecine conflicts among the Jews that they fell easy prey to the Roman attackers.

Even the Zealots themselves were divided into two factions, the historian relates, whose struggles among themselves hastened the fall of Jerusalem.

It may well be that Simon the Zealot was one of the followers of Jesus who believed that He might be a political deliverer who would overthrow the hated rule of Rome.

In one of his most widely quoted poems, the American poet Ezra Pound, tried to imagine the thoughts of Simon the Zealot, following the Crucifixion. The work is called, "Ballad of the Goodly Fere," and one of the stanzas quotes the disciple as saying:

"A master of men was the Goodly Fere

A mate of the wind and sea
If they think they ha' slain
our Goodly Fere

They are fools eternally."

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the difficult jobs of housekeeping is to wax linoleum and asphalt tile floors. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it's no longer necessary to wax and scrub. Just apply Glaxo about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre, non-slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor.

Stroud Union To Feature Concert

STROUD UNION High School presents its annual "choral concert" on Friday, March 28 at the school auditorium.

Numa Snyder is director of vocal music for the school. Snyder said that this year's program will be centered around "Music of Pennsylvania."

Included will be selections by such major Pennsylvania composers as Charles Wakefield Cadman, Ethelbert Nevin, Stephen Foster and Monroe County's top modern composer, Tom Waring.

One highlight of the program will be a minstrel show featuring Foster tunes. This will be performed by the Boys Chorus.

Instrumental Group

An instrumental group from the high school band will also take part in the concert, Snyder said.

Numbers chosen from Pennsylvania Music Educators' Association festivals during the past 12 years will be sung by the Girls Chorus and the Mountaineers and Decemettes will join forces to do a group of Pennsylvania Dutch folk songs.

As another production highlight, the choral groups will sing a group of numbers published by "Shawnee Press," representing a Pennsylvania publishing house.

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

It's been a long time since I packed an Easter basket but I had a good excuse yesterday. A wistful note from a small niece in Rome was all I needed. It seems that while she no longer believes in the Easter bunny, she still believes very firmly in "Something from Home."

Anyway, I had a wonderful time. "Grass" for Easter baskets is cellophane instead of shredded tissue. It's shinier but harder to pull apart, but it will probably stick to lollipops that have been sucked and chocolate eggs that have been bitten into just as firmly as the old kind.

One thing she mentioned in particular was jelly beans. Well, they haven't changed much, except now they come in sizes, small, medium and large. Also I never realized how heavy jelly beans are. When you have to limit weight to two pounds, jelly beans count up awfully fast.

Weighing practically nothing at all were the "little chickens" she asked for, but they're hard to find. Oh there are plenty of elaborate animals, but those little chickens with the lop-sided wing feathers, and the eyes stuck on crooked and the cardboard bills that were always coming off are rare.

Rare also are those "scenic" spun sugar eggs: the ones with the little window in front you peered through with one eye into a world of enchantment where a little girl was perpetually sitting on a swing in an ever-blooming garden where the sun always shone.

But anyway they'd have been too heavy, so I settled for marshmallow chickens and chocolate rabbits and a chocolate egg with a yolk, and got so hungry that I got a pound of jelly beans all for myself and ate all the licorice ones first.

But what we'll ever do on Easter with nary a child to hide Easter eggs for I can't imagine. Whatever will I do with all the handle-less cups I kept just for dyeing Easter eggs in?

And if you think buying an Easter bonnet for a daughter or an Easter tie for a son makes up for no Easter bunny, you really are old.

Educational Column Wins PTA Praise

Swiftwater — The Paradise Parent Teachers Assn. instructed its secretary to write to the Daily Record requesting that the educational column by Leonard Randolph be continued as a permanent column in the newspaper.

The action tied in with the program for the meeting, held Thursday night at the school when Alfred Freeland, school principal, spoke on "What is the Parents' Role in School Community Planning?"

Parents are part of the school, he said, with pupil, teacher, and administrators. It is their duty to keep informed on education through newspapers, books, TV, lectures and reports of activities in other schools.

Parents should be receptive to new ideas, participate in school affairs and be concerned about curriculum improvement, report cards, PTA activities and new building programs.

He stressed the importance of asking questions, participation in school affairs, and voluntary visits to the school itself, as well as instilling in their children a positive attitude toward school. He urged parents to follow the progress of their children more closely, and to encourage them to do their best. Teachers, too, are encouraged when they know that the parent is vitally concerned about the school.

Mrs. David Toms presided at the meeting. Mrs. Al Freeland led the devotionals and Nancy Leis, Patty Storm and Marie Freeland represented the Girl Scouts in conducting the Flag Salute.

Announcement was made of the square dance this month and the Hill Billy Show scheduled for April 25 at the Barrett High School auditorium.

Refreshments were served from a St. Patrick's table by Mrs. Nierling, Mrs. Bessecker, Mrs. Goll and Mrs. Henry.

Luncheon Today For Pocono GOP Council

Mount Pocono—The Pocono Mountain Council of Republican Women will hold a luncheon meeting today at 12:30 at Pocono Manor Inn.

A business meeting will be held at 2 p. m. and members are urged to attend the luncheon, if possible. Miss H. Eloise Bryan is president of the council.

Box Social In April For Pocono PTA

Tannersville—An old-fashioned box social with modern trimmings will be held on Friday, April 11, at the school in Tannersville, sponsored by the Pocono Twp. Parent Teachers Assn.

There will be an orchestra, square and round dancing, and homemade ice cream in addition to the traditional auction of box lunches. Mrs. Elsie Bessecker is chairman of the publicity committee for the social, which will take the place of the April meeting of the PTA.

At the March meeting, an open house was held at the school when the parents visited the classrooms and conferred with the teachers. Named to the nominating committee were Charles Brader, William Horst and Mrs. Richard Post.

Republican Women Prepare For Primaries

Dingmans Ferry — In anticipation of the coming primary election on March 20th, Mrs. Flora Benjamin, president of the Pike County Council of Republican Women, has requested all members of the group to check their townships and boroughs for unregistered voters. March 31st is the last day on which new residents may register to vote in the primaries. "Older residents, who wish to change their party affiliation, must also make the change before March 31st and they may not change their party listing between the primary and general elections," said Mrs. Benjamin.

All applications for registration must be made at the County Commissioners' Office in Milford, and the women of the Pike County Council will make arrangements for any eligible voters who may need transportation to the county seat in order to register.

The March meeting of the Republican women's group was held last Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Calvin Rosecrance in Milford. Other business conducted at the meeting included the election of officers, as follows: President, Mrs. Flora Benjamin; 1st Vice-Pres., Mrs. Grace Hall; 2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. Doris Rosecrance; Corresponding Sec'y., Mrs. Henrietta Pennell; Recording Sec'y., Mrs. James Bryce; Treasurer, Mrs. Lucy Fields.

The next meeting of the Council of Republican Women will be held on Monday, April 14th, at the home of Mrs. James Bryce, Harford Street, Milford. Mrs. Benjamin has requested the members to bring to that meeting any news clippings they may have concerning the chief candidates for state and federal offices in this primary election, so that the women may be informed of the qualifications of each. Mrs. Benjamin appealed particularly to those women who have access to other than Pike County papers, so that the members may obtain as broad a picture as possible of all Republican candidates for office.

Progressive Club Honors Its Pioneers

Saylorsburg — The Progressive Women's Club of Saylorsburg paid special tribute to their past presidents and charter members at the regular meeting this week, held in the Chestnut Hill School auditorium.

The business session was opened by the president, Mrs. Grant Knowles, followed by the invocation given by Mrs. George Hafler.

Mrs. Oscar Bonser was called upon to outline the plans for the "Project of the Year." Mrs. Bonser pointed to the lack of proper recreational facilities and planned activities for the local teenage groups. The local schools have offered the only place where they can gather, and while they have done much to sponsor activities and offer direction, it is the hope of the club that local civic and fraternal organizations may be encouraged to join in the development of a Youth Civic Center in this area.

Mrs. Knowles reviewed with pride the progress of the club and of the special part each Past President contributed toward its advancement and of the encouraging devotion exhibited by those Pioneer Charter Members, who over the years cheerfully assume their obligations and assist when called upon to do so.

"Through fellowship and a common dedication to community service the club will prosper for good and, maintain the high standards set by those who have gone before," said Mrs. Knowles. A presentation was made of dainty personal gifts to each of the Past Presidents.

Mrs. Clarence Budge, program chairman, introduced Miss Charlotte Bach, chairman of dramatics of the Portland Women's Club who introduced the members of the cast of the one-act play, "You Can't Trust A Man," which delighted the audience with its professional finesse.

Miss Bach also dramatized "The ten cardinal points to belonging to A Club" to the amusement of all.

St. Patrick's Day was accentuated in the table decorations and the refreshments served by the hostesses under the chairmanship of Mrs. Leon Keller.

PENNSYLVANIA'S Homemaker of Tomorrow is 18-year-old Linda Friday of Tyrone Area High School, Tyrone, Pa. She will receive a $1,500 scholarship for gaining the highest score in the state in a written homemaker examination out of 21,163 senior girls competing. Students from all of Monroe County high schools took part in the contest. Miss Friday ranks fifth in a class of 165 seniors, and plans to be a nurse.

Mrs. Mary Bush President Of Lane WSCHS

Cherry Lane—The Women's Society of Christian Service met at the home of Mrs. Betty Sebring on Wednesday with a covered dish supper preceding the meeting.

A rummage sale was planned as well as the summer bazaar. The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ethel Sebring.

Elected to serve during the year were: Mrs. Mary Bush, president; Mrs. Alfreda Henry, vice president and secretary of spiritual life; Mrs. Jane Youngkin, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Ethel Sebring, secretary of foreign missions and education; Mrs. Bessie Hauser, secretary of Christian Social Relations.

Present were Mrs. Mary C. Bush, Mrs. Alfreda Henry, Mrs. Mabel Henry, Mrs. Jane Youngkin, Mrs. Ethel Sebring, Mrs. Bessie Hauser, Mrs. Mildred Getz, Mrs. Lucy Rowe, Mrs. Mildred Horst, Mrs. Lucy Hartman, Mrs. Mildred Sebring, Mrs. Mildred Cron and the hostess, Mrs. Betty Sebring.

The March meeting of the Republican women's group was held last Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Calvin Rosecrance in Milford. Other business conducted at the meeting included the election of officers, as follows: President, Mrs. Flora Benjamin; 1st Vice-Pres., Mrs. Grace Hall; 2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. Doris Rosecrance; Corresponding Sec'y., Mrs. Henrietta Pennell; Recording Sec'y., Mrs. James Bryce; Treasurer, Mrs. Lucy Fields.

The next meeting of the Council of Republican Women will be held on Monday, April 14th, at the home of Mrs. James Bryce, Harford Street, Milford. Mrs. Benjamin has requested the members to bring to that meeting any news clippings they may have concerning the chief candidates for state and federal offices in this primary election, so that the women may be informed of the qualifications of each. Mrs. Benjamin appealed particularly to those women who have access to other than Pike County papers, so that the members may obtain as broad a picture as possible of all Republican candidates for office.

Perfect Example

Mrs. L. is a perfect illustration of this. She has been trying for some time to get a job. There was about her an air of inefficiency, a feeling that she herself didn't think she was a very good bet. This is an intangible thing. Those of us who see a good many people every day can spot it in a moment.

When Mrs. L. asked me what I thought was the trouble, I told her quite frankly.

We were sitting in her living room looking out on the garden. Everything about the place looked half done.

Gardening Program

I suggested that she really knuckle down and do something about the garden instead of just making idle passes at it. If she would get good books about the different kinds of flowers and plants, do some real studying and get a thorough-going and professional approach toward that one heretofore casual activity, it might revolutionize

Make One Improvement And Others Will Follow

By Anne Heywood

If you let yourself get lazy and sloppy in one department of your life, chances are these habits will infect every other department of your life.

Reverse Is True

Happily, however, the reverse is also true. Any effort that is made to banish sloppiness and laziness and to cultivate wholeheartedness in one area will bring its rewards into every area.

This is a fact which housewives particularly ought to bear in mind. Because they have, in the true sense, no boss, their standards have to be self-imposed. It is all too easy for them to get in the habit of giving things "a lick and a promise."

If a woman is this kind of housekeeper, she's sure to have a low opinion of herself. Then, if she ever wants to get into the business world, she is sure to underestimate herself. She's apt to put a mental "just a" in front of the word "housewife." This in turn, makes the potential employer underestimate her.

Democratic Women To Meet On Friday

Canadensis—The next meeting of the Barrett Women's Democratic Club will be held on Friday, March 21, at the YMCA in Mountainhome. The meeting will begin promptly at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Ethel Matthes, regional director of District No. 3, will preside over the installation of officers. Mrs. Julius Krummell and Mrs. Leon Meyung, membership chairmen, announced that this meeting will open a month-long membership drive. No business meeting will be conducted.

The feature of the program will be a demonstration of "Your Voice and You" with the compliments of the Bell Telephone Co.

bert Kelper, Glenmore Hayes, Ralph Dunlap, Jacob Murphy, Brian Reddington, William Hayes, Waldo Dyson Jr. and Carl and Earl Gottschall.

The program was given by the Boy Scouts with Eugene Miller as the leader.

A first aid display was given. Larry Kelper acted as an injured victim and the other Scouts bandaged and made a stretcher for him. Those taking part were David Blakeslee, Jerry Hanna, Waldo Dyson Jr., Joseph Fischer, Jack Parry, William Hayes, Larry Kelper, Carl and Earl Gottschall.

The Junior Rifleman's Club was explained by Miller. The Army Department supplies the club with four 22 calibre rifles and ammunition. An all-day trip to South Orange, N. J., will be made by the club on Saturday, March 22 to participate in a Junior Rifleman's team match.

Slides of the scouting activities during the year were shown.

Franklin Altomose was advanced to first class scout.

The following were advanced to second class scouts: Glenmore Hayes, Jacob Murphy, Harvey Kelper and Jack Parry.

Scouts receiving certificates of participation in pistol matches were Thomas Smith, Daniel Woehle, Harvey Kelper, Gerold Kelper, Franklin Altomose, Eugene Bonser, David Woehle, Jerry Hanna, Jack Parry, Nor-

Months ago — or maybe it was only weeks, things happen so rapidly at Wyckoff's—Holt Wyckoff, our president, asked me to put on my thinking cap and suggest a slogan for the 83rd anniversary celebration, scheduled to begin March 19th. March 19th! Two days before Spring. Even as I thought about it, I could see the golden beauty of daffodils, and smell the first freshness of a season that stimulates the heart beat. Racks of pretty dresses . . . bouquets of gloriously flowered hats . . . EASTER!

"Why," I asked tentatively, "don't we call it our Younger than Springtime Sale? You know—something like 'We're 83—but Younger than Springtime'. That's forward looking . . . young in spirit . . . fresh as the season . . . and there's even a beautiful melody by that title."

Our conversation took place in the receiving room, and Mr. Wyckoff Sr., was there, presumably paying no attention to us, while he sorted through merchandise. "I LIKE that," he suddenly remarked. "That sounds very good to me."

Holt said he liked it too . . . but that MAYBE it was too long to fit on a poster. "Give the idea to Fran Meredith to play around with," he said, "and we'll see what comes of it."

What has finally come of it, will be obvious tomorrow when our Younger than Springtime Sale opens 10 exciting days of an anniversary celebration. When the idea was presented to our store advisers in New York, they liked it . . . and their artists went to work, with an enthusiasm that finally culminated in a combination of exquisitely springlike colors, flowers and birds. Arthur Widmer, head of our advertising department, went to work on it too . . . before you could say "Happy Birthday" he had sent out bright yellow Ad Requisition sheets, cheerily decorated with Spring artwork, to each department head.

Younger than Springtime! What a lyrical way to feel after a drab winter. Week after week our department heads scurried into New York, plowing through snowdrifts and slushy gutters to round up merchandise that would be strictly new . . . fresh as a daisy . . . and imbued with the spirit of an exciting new season.

Mardee Albert came home with the promise of some beautiful cotton towed chemise dresses that would sell at a fraction of their value; Thelma Gordon found some delightful lingerie for little-and-big girls that is literally frosted with rows and rows of lace; Carrie Rusk found a veritable treasure chest of cardigans . . . and so it was with every department head in our store.

Holt had news too . . . exciting news . . . about a series of gardens to be set up throughout our store by LaBar's Nursery, bringing the splendor and sweetness of Spring right into Wyckoff's. Bill Wells was humming over with excitement about the fine job his Fashion buyers were doing. Pete Wyckoff was racing to complete his buying before leaving for Europe. Walter Wyckoff was delighted with some of the specials found for his Floor Covering department and reminding everyone that was much in evidence about the store, directing many of the second floor renovations. As always, Mr. Wyckoff Sr., has as his big interest the annual dinner for Fifty Year Customers . . . and Jack Kerlin, our manager, is pleasantly thrilled by the prospect of the Foreign Car Show this Saturday.

Right now, the advertising department is struggling under a gigantic snowdrift of ads to be written. Some of us are even taking vitamin pills. So what? We're 83 . . . and while, on certain days, we may feel it, we're actually YOUNGER THAN SPRINGTIME!

Miss Mary Grace

Local Girl Heads College Fashion Show

Bloomersburg — Mary Grace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Grace, 406 Bryant Street, Stroudsburg, will serve as head fashion co-ordinator during the 12th annual Fashion Show which will be presented on Thursday, March 20, at the Bloomersburg State Teachers College. In addition to co-ordinating the activities of all student personnel in the show, Mary will help prepare the script and will do most of the narrating.

She has been a member of the fashion show staff for four years; she was a member of the modeling staff for two years and was then chosen to serve as co-ordinator and narrator.

Prior to her graduation from Stroudsburg High School in 1954, Mary was a member of the band, chorus, Decemettes, and served as secretary of the senior class. At Bloomersburg, she is a member of the band, Pi Omega Pi Fraternity, chorus, Business Education Club, Newman Club, Student Education Association and the Dormitory Governing Board. She has served as secretary of her class during her Junior and Senior years and was recently named to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Miss Paul Is Bride Of L. A. Cahoon

Miss Dorothy Patricia Paul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Paul of Phillips St., Stroudsburg, became the bride of Lee Alden Cahoon, son of Mrs. Wilhelmina Cahoon and the late Monroe Cahoon of Nantucket, Mass., on Friday, March 7 at 7 p. m. at the Stroudsburg Methodist Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Roger Stimson.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina-length dress of white flowered organza over mist green tulle. She wore a mint green crown with matching veil and carried a bouquet of white gardenias.

Miss Elaine Paul was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a street-length dress of baby blue and a small hat of matching satin. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

Robert Martin of Harrisburg was best man.

The bride's mother wore a dark blue dress and hat with a corsage of red roses.

A reception for relatives and friends was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride, a graduate of Stroudsburg High School in 1954, was also graduated from Central Technical Institute and is employed by American Airlines in Washington, D. C.

The bridegroom was graduated from Nantucket High School in the class of 1948 and served three and a half years in the Army. A graduate of East Coast Aero Tech, he is employed by Capital Airlines in Washington, D. C. as a mechanic.

What Young People Think

Air-Minded Youths Set To Fight

Interest In Planes On Increase

By Eugene Gilbert
President of the Gilbert Youth Research Co.

NOT LONG ago we disparaged slightly the adventurous spirit of American youth on the basis of our finding that only a few youngsters want any part of pioneering a trip to the moon. But there is another side to the coin.

Questioning several hundred youths, we find that more than one in four of the boys would like to be an Air Force pilot.

Granted that piloting an air fighter, however hazardous it might be, is much less of an unknown quantity than taking a space trip, the fact remains that a 25 per cent vote for such a service seems high.

It bears out what an air force officer told me recently that the service has plenty of pilot volunteers, although it needs more technicians to keep the service ships flying.

Few Have Flown

Among both boys and girls, about one in fifteen hopes someday to pilot a plane of his or her own. And yet, only one in six of the girls, and one in four of the boys have been in the air at all.

Of those who have flown, the overwhelming majority tell us that they like it better than traveling by train, auto or bus. Only 1 per cent of the boys and 3 per cent of the girls would rather travel by land.

One in four would...

This despite the fact that even those who prefer the air over ground travel have qualms over what they consider the hazards involved.

"I love flying but there is always the danger of a crash," said Jo Ann Whately of New York City. Mike Crossner, 17, of Kansas City expressed fear of running out of fuel during flight.

"It's too expensive," said Eileen Eagen of Yonkers, N. Y.

"By traveling at such rapid rates of speed we seem to be missing things," observed philosophical Don Lawrence of Il-fly and fight

lino, N. Y. "This is not just with reference to airplanes but refers to a great many aspects of modern life."

Girls a Factor?

Some of this anti-airplane reasoning carried over into thoughts about joining the Air Force.

Reasons for not wanting to be a service pilot ranged from "I don't see any room for advancement or self-improvement," to "It just doesn't interest me."

On the other hand, some had practical and idealistic reasons for preferring the Air Force.

"It's better than carrying an M-1 rifle," said a 16-year-old from Indianapolis, beset by visions of slogging through the mud with the infantry.

"I have an obsession to fly a B-52 bomber someday," 17-year-old Douglas Merchant of Ilion, N. Y., told us.

Perhaps the girls influence some of the boys against the Air Force. About three out of five told us they would not like to see their boy friends flying in service. Mostly, they were concerned about his safety.

"I'd worry," said Judy Markowitz of Passaic, N. J.

"It's not a family man job," said Linda Epstein, 17, of Syracuse, N. Y. "He has to be away too often."

Stewardess' Job Popular

"I would prefer other professions but if that's what he really wanted I would go along," said a Fort Worth, Tex., 15-year-old.

"He would be doing good for both himself and his country," added Janet Fern, 15, of Jacksonville, Fla.

The girls also feel quite strongly about women as Air Force pilots. About a quarter of those polled felt women should be permitted to join the Air Force as pilots. But only 2 per cent would be Air Force pilots if they could.

"I like flying but not that much," added an Indianapolis lass, 16.

The job of airline stewardess still has glamor for the girls. About 44 per cent would like such an assignment.

"What a wonderful opportunity to see the world!" enthused a Baltimore girl, 15.

Senior Play This Week

CURTAIN TIME for the Stroud Union High School's Senior Class play, "You Can't Take It With You," will be 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday nights this week at the school auditorium.

Scene for the production, which was written by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, lies in New York City during the 1930's.

Senior class spokesmen gave the following sketch of escapades encountered by the Martin Vanderhof family during the play.

Martin, they explained, is in his 70's and has a play-writing daughter in her 50's. Various members of the family have such hobbies as making home-made candy, taking ballet lessons, making fireworks in the cellar, and playing a hi-fi set.

All of the activities take place in the house at the same time, they added, leading to "some very refreshing situations."

Tickets for the one-time, long run Broadway play are available from Senior class members or at the auditorium prior to performances. Prices were reported as 40 cents for students and 75 cents for adults.

Stock Market Wipes Out Last Week's Gains With Sharpest Drop Since February Date

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market yesterday wiped out last week's gains with its sharpest dip since Feb. 11.

An estimated 1½ billion dollars was clipped from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the drop in The Associated Press average. Pivotal stocks fell fractions of 1 or 2 points for some. Selected issues posted gains.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped $1.20 to $162.50 for its largest drop since it lost

$1.30 on Feb. 11. The industrials were down $2.20, the rails $1.00 and the utilities were unchanged.

Declines

Of 1,135 issues traded, declines totaled 519 and advances 322. New highs for 1957-58 totaled 26 and new lows 5.

Volume was 2,130,000 shares compared with 2,150,000 Friday.

Of the 15 most active stocks, 10 declined, 4 rose and 1 was unchanged.

U.S. Tobacco was the most active stock, off ¼ at 23½ on 68,400 shares. Second was Lorillard, up ¼ at 48½ on 41,200 shares. Third was Polaroid, up 2 at 64½ on 36,000 shares.

Next came Wilson & Co., off ¼ at 29½, and Revlon, off at 30½.

American Stock Exchange prices were lower on volume of 570,000 shares compared with 510,000 on Friday.

Corporate bonds were steady in light trading. U.S. government bonds advanced in slow dealings over the counter.

Foodless Journey

GENOA, Italy (AP)—Skindiver Giuseppe Cerrutti is on his way to Marseille in a 10-foot plastic rowboat. He is carrying a cask of water, but no food. The 22-year-old adventurer intends to skindive for fish and cook them on an alcohol stove. With good weather he hopes to row the 210 miles to Marseille in three weeks.

Two Hospitals

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP)—The Soviet Union has offered to build two hospitals at Tripoli and Balda and the Libyans have accepted. The Soviet Embassy announced. A tentative plan is for nursing students to be trained in Soviet universities. The total cost was estimated at about three million dollars.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Proposals Outlined By Chamber

TWO TENTATIVE proposals were outlined by the service committee of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce during a meeting of the chamber yesterday.

The committee will endeavor to get the road leading to the Design Techniques plant in Hamilton Township extended to the plant and reports that state funds for the project apparently are available.

Vocational Education Also scheduled is an investigation into the possibility of securing more equipment for vocational education in the area.

The report was presented by Ted Hoffman in the absence of J. Albert Groner, chairman.

Topic Released For Address

"A NEW ERA in Engineering-Management Relations" will be the topic of an address to be given Friday night at the Pennsylvania Society of Professional Engineers meeting in Bethlehem.

Milton Lunch, legislative consultant of the national society, will be the speaker. He will discuss the contrasting views of unionism and professionalism. The meeting opens at 7:30 p.m. in Hotel Bethlehem.

Pocono Pines

DeNike To Attend Two Conferences

HOWARD DENIKE, chairman of the Citizens Traffic Action Committee, will appear at two special programs for traffic safety in the near future.

The East Stroudsburg State Teachers College professor has been invited to attend a special film showing at the RCA Exhibition Hall in New York on Thursday.

DeNike, long a student and teacher of safety, is a member of a select group to see "Perception of Driving Hazards." This film is being presented by the New York University Center for Education and Shell Oil Co.

Chairman DeNike will also act in the capacity of chairman of a special discussion group of college professors at the Pennsylvania Association for Safety Education.

This ninth annual conference will be at the Community Building, Hershey, on Friday and Saturday, April 18 and 19. The conference theme is "Fifth Freedom—The Right to Live."

Ray Mullin, of Millersville State Teachers College and former DeNike student, will be secretary of the conference.

U.S. Assistance Stops Russia

WASHINGTON (AP)—Foreign aid chief James H. Smith said yesterday U.S. arms aid abroad has "stopped Communist military aggression throughout the world" and forced the Soviets to switch to an economic offensive.

Smith, in a filmed TV interview with Rep. Ostertag (R-NY), defended as "definitely not a give-away" President Eisenhower's disputed $3,900,000,000 aid request now before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.
